After the Chinese were forced to leave Rocklin in 1876, about 1,000 were hired by entrepreneur Joel Parker Whitney to live and work on his ranch. The expelled workers built numerous water courses and stone fences at his ranch. One of the 12 granite bridges is located at Clover Valley Park on Midas at Clover Valley Road.

Stone fences crisscrossing Whitney's ranch were built by Chinese workers

A historic plaque marks the location of Joel Parker Whitney's now demolished three-story, 20 room Oaks mansion. The plaque is in front of a private residence at the end of Knoll Court in the Mansion Oaks neighborhood.
